Calgary.
February 20th 1911

Dear Miss Parlow

The Colonel Macklod Chapter of The Daughters of the Empire have gathered to give you hearty greetings, to welcome you back to the place of your birth and to express their pride and pleasure in your achievements.

Although in the outward appearance of this hurrying Western city, you may see but little to remind you of the Calgary left so few years ago, yet there remain in it, those who have followed your progress and have fired with their interest even the newest of our new citizens on behalf of all these, accept our welcome. 19

To have developed so precious a talent as you have, to have climbed already to such heights on the ladder of fame is an inspiration to us, your countrywomen; for we realize that not only do you possess a gift that the wealth of the prairies cannot buy, but also that your steady patience in work, and your unflagging zeal, have contributed in no small measure to your success. So we at home point eagerly to your career as a stimulus to our sons and daughters, as they reach out after their coveted prizes.

Whatever conceptions you may have formed of our growth during your absence, however materialistic we may have been called, we should like you at least to know that we do prize the gift of a musical and artistic soul far more highly than our critics dream. We rejoice therefore with you as we learn of each new triumph won, and with you look forward to still greater conquests in your chosen world of music.

Signed on behalf of the Chapter

Maun A. Pinkham

Regent.
